

Rachel Ehlers

Rachel Ehlers, Class of 1999, is an attorney with National Oilwell Varco, a Fortune 200 company headquartered in Houston and operating in more than 70 countries worldwide. Rachel currently manages NOV's global investigations and risk assessments. She has worked for NOV since January 2010 and was also the company's anti-corruption compliance attorney. She travels extensively for the company, primarily to its overseas hubs in Scotland, Dubai, Singapore and Brazil.

Rachel also worked as an attorney in a large law firm in New York and a boutique firm in Houston, specializing in corporate finance and business development.

Rachel began her career as a Foreign Service Officer for the U.S. Department of State's Diplomatic Corps, where she worked from 2002-2007. Her government career included postings in Hong Kong and Venezuela, and she did temporary assignments throughout Southeast Asia, China and South America.

Rachel is very active in the local community, including Board of Director positions with the United Way and the Salvation Army. She is also an active member of her local Rotary Club.

During Rachel's tenure at Texas A&M, she was a Student Senator, VP on the Memorial Student Center Board, and a staff writer for The Battalion. She was also in one of the first Academy of Future International Leaders classes.

After graduating from Texas A&M, she pursued a Master's Degree in International Development overseas in Europe, and then attended law school at the University of Texas, Austin.

Rachel speaks Chinese and Spanish.