

L. Gene Kornegay

L. Gene Kornegay currently is Country Manager for Noble Energy Inc., based in Nicosia, Cyprus. Formerly, he was Country Manager for Noble Energy in the Republic of Equatorial Guinea, one of the largest producing areas for Noble, including oil, gas, condensate and an interest in a methanol plant. Before Equatorial Guinea he was Country Manager for Noble in the Republic of Cameroon. Prior to joining Noble Energy he was President, Chief Operating Officer and member of the Board of Directors of GLOBEX Energy, Inc., until it was sold to Marathon Oil Corporation. GLOBEX was a privately held international upstream oil and gas company based in Houston, Texas.

Mr. Kornegay began his career in the private practice of law representing major companies in a variety of complex litigation and arbitration cases. As a consequence of legal representation on behalf of Conoco Inc. (now Conoco/Phillips), he was invited to join the company. While holding a variety of negotiation and managerial positions, he successfully completed business transactions between both companies and governments in Europe, Africa, South America and Asia. In the mid-1990's, as President of Conoco Middle East Ltd., he initiated and led a team of multi-disciplined professionals in an effort that became the first upstream petroleum agreement with the Islamic Republic of Iran following the revolution in 1979. This achievement required the development of an innovative, multifaceted contractual model. Other unique transactions in which he has been involved include an agreement with the government of Cambodia in an international boundary dispute area and marginal field agreements in Indonesia.
